Support And Resistance EA V1.02.mq4 1

The chart does not need to be straight and the points are within the channel. Not sure if this is the first trade is placed as a fixed low or high position, but I personally like it . Dec 27, 2016 I was wondering if someone could help me with the implementation of a support and resistance indicator into an EA? I have roughly coded the algorithm that I was thinking of using and perhaps someone here can offer some input? Is something similar to the indicator I have posted already being used? The idea is to take the values of the channels at the original price, and then subtract those values from the current price. Then, I take the difference between the highest possible value and the lowest possible value, and then see what the difference is between the actual value and the point where the channel crosses the price line. If there is a greater difference than the average channel width, then that is a strong point to buy or sell. Dec 10, 2016 No support and resistance, just software that has done well for others. Nov 23, 2016 This indicator does not calculate the high/low, it just gets the range of both sides of the highs and lows Here is the link for a free indicator that calculates the low and high of the market(choose buy/sell) and gives you the possible profit in the grid/bars Nov 2, 2016 Great indicator already on the web. Feb 20, 2016 Feb 4, 2016 The first thing you might need to check is the settings on the indicator. For support and resistance you need to make sure it is set to threshold. By default it will place a trade every time you get a signal above or below the high/low of the previous day. When the signal crosses the threshold it triggers a buy/sell order. Oct 3, 2015 How do you do that? Oct 2, 2015 This is a good software but you need to know the settings for it. Oct 1, 2015 I think you need to check the settings for that indicator.
